

T> Dear FCC,>I'm writing to express my extreme opposition to lifting the ban on cell phone use aboard airplanes. It is unpleasant enough being subjected to private cell phone conversations in public places but at least you have the option of escaping. Being forced to endure this intrusion while trapped for a length of time with no avoidance would be fairly intolerable. The simple act of traveling these days is frustrating enough what with security restrictions and crowded, cramped aircraft without having to endure additional aggravating and stressful situations.
Please. Keep the ban in place.
Thank you for your time.
